LEADERSHIP PITCH · NEXT GEN GLOBAL COLLAB · ON THE ROAD TO 2033

How will we know?

Thirty-plus organisations. Dozens of countries. One goal — every young person with a real opportunity to follow Jesus by 2033 — and, until now, no shared way to tell whether young people are actually following Him.

This is the proposal: one shared measure — the Jesus Index — owned by everyone, run by anyone, so the whole movement finally reads the same picture.

THE SHIFT

Same mission. Same questions. A different way of measuring.

What stays the same

The 2033 goal. The three questions — do they follow Jesus, do they join His mission, does their world look different? And the collaboration: we still measure together.

What changes

From one centralised study the Collab runs, funds and owns — to a crowdsourced shared measure that hundreds of organisations, down to a single local church, run for themselves.

Why it matters

We stop carrying the measuring tape ourselves and hand it to everyone. Each organisation gets value back immediately; the Collab gets a pooled picture no study could afford.

WHY THE CHANGE

Three walls the original study couldn't get past.

The under-18 wall

Most Collab organisations work with under-18s. Centrally collecting minors' data across many countries needs ethics infrastructure we don't have. Run at the edge, consent stays with each organisation.

The money wall

The Global Flourishing Study covers 22 countries and cost about $43M. Our ~$1M would buy roughly one country for seven years — not fifty.

The quality wall

A global study on a small budget means ad-hoc sampling: data we can't compare year to year or region to region. A shared instrument used the same way everywhere can be.

THE THINKING BEHIND IT

The missing leg of Collective Impact — and a proven pattern.

Common agenda	Shared measurement	Reinforcing activities	Continuous communication	Backbone support
✓ the 2033 vision	the Jesus Index	✓ each partner	✓ the gatherings	✓ NXT Move

Stanford's Collective Impact names five conditions a coalition needs. We have four. The Index builds the fifth.

Gallup Q12

Twelve questions in a four-level hierarchy, run by organisations across 50+ industries and benchmarked against a global database.

Global Flourishing Study

Harvard, Baylor and Gallup. A shared index across 22 countries — the model of a common measure, if not the budget.

World Vision · Hope & Love

A validated tool measuring how children experience God's love, released in 2025. The faith sector already does this.

THE MODEL

Three questions. Four tiers. Twelve cells: the J12.

The three questions are what we measure. The four tiers are how deep it has gone — Exposure → Response → Formation → Multiplication. Every question in the survey sits in one cell. Read across a row to see where young people stop moving; read down a column to compare the three.

The J12 is the twelve core questions — one per cell — about five minutes on any phone. The full survey asks more in each cell.

	EXPOSURE	RESPONSE	FORMATION	MULTIPLICATION
Follow personal faith	heard of Jesus	believes in Jesus	being shaped	helps others believe
Mission outward	aware of the call	convinced it's theirs	practising witness	mobilising others
World lived impact	sees faith should matter	believes faith matters	choices reshaped	changing their spheres

THREE OUTCOMES

What we're building — and how the crowdsourced model works.

1 · The shared metric

One memorable, translatable instrument anyone can run. Free to every ministry, always.

2 · The dashboard

Each organisation sees its own results live, under its own name. The Collab sees the pooled picture.

3 · The consulting

“What does this mean?” — facilitators help turn a score into a changed strategy. The long game.

White-labelled, theirs

An organisation signs up and runs the Index under its own logo and colour; its data flows back to the shared picture.

Benchmarks earn their place

Comparisons switch on for a place only once enough people there have completed the Index.

Risk moves to the edge

Organisations gather data under their own consent; the Index never holds identifiable data about anyone, least of all minors.

PRIVACY AND HONESTY

The integrity line, and the promises behind it.

“Of those who have completed the Index — here are the results, and here's how you compare.” We never claim to speak for a nation.

Every score shows its n

Results describe the people who answered — never a whole population.

Nothing that points at a person

No score under 10 people; no city or area under 400; no country under 2,000.

Aggregates only

No organisation sees an individual answer — not even its own young people's.

Anonymous by design

No names, emails or birthdays; age is a band; IP addresses never stored with answers.

Consent before collection

Confirmed for the organisation and for every survey — no consent, no participation.

Never locked

Questions are researcher-owned and versioned; every answer stays tied to its version.

PARTNERSHIP AND HORIZON

Who does what, and the road to 2033.

The Collab — Owns the project, the relationships and the people.

NXT Move — The Collab's appointed backbone organisation.

Eido Research — The survey and intelligence engine.

Shared IP — Co-owned by NXT Move and Eido; anyone may publish results crediting both.

PHASE		INDICATIVE
2026	Build & baseline	$120K
2027	Prove the model	$180K
2028–29	Scale	$320K
2030–31	Trend lines	$240K
2032–33	Standard, not survey	$140K
Through 2033		~$1.0M

Early years are lean because data-gathering cost moves to the partners; free measures with paid advanced reports and consulting bend later years toward self-sustaining.

WHAT WE'RE ASKING

Run it. See it. Bring the organisations around you.

Join

Sign up your ministry, organisation or church at jfindx.org — free, about two minutes.

See a demo

jfindx.org/see-a-demo walks a fictional ministry, organisation and church through a whole season — every figure invented.

Bring others

Comparisons open as an area grows. The fastest way to see how you compare is to invite the ministries you already work alongside.

Clay to be moulded — not a vase to be baked. A working proposal, offered for shaping.
